

NOW IT'S TIME TO HANG IT UP

The Washington Post (1974-Current file); May 20, 1984;
ProQuest Historical Newspapers: The Washington Post
pg. SM39

NOW IT'S TIME TO HANG IT UP

Empty wall space just gaping at you bleakly in the bright springtime sun, begging to be filled? Not for long. The Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service puts out some terrific posters in connection with its exhibitions. Many have won design and printing awards. Posters included in the new free SITES brochure range in topic from "Dance Masks of Mexico" to "Edison and the Electrical Age" on to "A Celebration of Birds," "The Magic of Neon" and "Impressions/Expressions: Black American Graphics." (There's a neat tiger on that one.) All very educational—and very good-looking, too. Since delivery can take up to eight weeks, your empty walls will appreciate it if you order soon.

Posters. The one shown is $10; others start at $5. Free brochure from SITES Poster Brochure, Department PR, Arts & Industries 2170, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. 20560. 357-3168.

